Rutgers AAUP-AFT stands with APSCUF

Rutgers AAUP-AFT stands in solidarity with our colleagues in the Association of Pennsylvania State College and University Faculties (APSCUF) representing 5,500 faculty at 14 campuses. Your first-ever strike following more than a year without a contract is a courageous stance against State System officials attempting to impose egregious cuts and workload increases.

The Executive Committee of our union representing 7,000-plus faculty, adjuncts, postdocs, Educational Opportunity Fund counselors and TAs/GAs agrees with your leadership's refusal to accept rising precarity and course loads, cuts to pay and health care, and retirement givebacks. As faculty union leaders at the state university next door to you, we are all too aware of the impact these attacks have on the quality of higher education and the future of our communities.

Solidarity with APSCUF from your Rutgers colleagues!
